Schlossgeschichten - Tales of the Castle
title

Ringenberg Castle was rebuilt around 1660 on the old floor plan of a medieval castle. The complex was originally surrounded by a moat. Since 2020, the castle has been developed and culturally integrated by the city of Hamminkeln as a "third place".

Task:
The aim of this architecture studio course is to determine potential new uses for the existing building and to develop designs for the building and its immediate context.
Aim of the course:
- Site analysis with due consideration of historical urban development.
- Building analysis including understanding of the historical context.
- Proposing a new use and developing an appropriate space allocation program
- floor plans, sections, elevations, explanations of the construction, and perspectives as well as design models are required
